Preparedness Panel To Eye Cuban Buildup

Senate Group Seeks To Examine Maze of Conflicting Reports

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Preparedness subcommittee has set out in a maze of claims to gauge for itself the perils of Soviet military power in Cuba, and to see if it is swiftly increasing.

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., the subcommittee chairman, ordered the investigation Friday, saying: "Reports which have come to me indicate that the continued presence and buildup of military might in Cuba is rapidly converting Castro's forces into the second most powerful military power in the hemisphere."

"Since these forces were controlled by the hostile rulers of Communist Russia it is imperative that we examine carefully... the threat which it poses to our security and the state of our own military preparedness to meet and counter this threat."

Sources said military and intelligence officials would be among the witnesses for the hearings which they expect to begin in two weeks behind closed doors.

Stennis ordered the investigation hours after hearing Secretary of State Dean Rusk and John A. McCone, director of the Central Intelligence Agency, brief the subcommittee in a closed session.

Stennis himself reserved comment on what Rusk and McCone had said. Nor did he indicate their testimony was the reason for his subcommittee's investigation.

Informants said the Preparedness group will explore various reports on the extent of Soviet strength in Cuba — including whether it has the equivalent of two divisions there and whether

Transit Firm Shuns Accord To End Strike

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A proposed settlement in the 12-day transit strike, which union members had already voted 10-1 to accept, has been rejected by the Philadelphia Transportation Co.

Transport workers on their way to get the buses, trolleys and subways rolling again were called back Friday night. Pickets returned to their posts.

The proposed settlement, negotiated after 10 days of meetings, was rejected by the company's executive committee. Robert H. Stier, PTC president and chief negotiator, promptly resigned.

His successor, Albert G. Lyons, a vice president, said he telephoned Michael J. Quill, international president of the Transport Workers Union, and they scheduled a negotiating session today.

"This could take weeks now," Quill said. "We're jacking up our demands right back to where they were before the strike started."

Quill had called the proposed settlement a tremendous victory for the 5,600 members of Local 234. The union began the negotiations with a demand for a 7-cents-an-hour wage package plus benefit increases and retention of a no-layoff clause.

The proposed settlement retained the no-layoff clause for all pre-strike employees and provided a 33-cents-an-hour increase.

Wages would go up 10 cents each year of the two-year contract. The remaining 13 cents an hour was the estimated cost of the fringe benefits.

Winter Fires Take High Toll

Mother Dies Trying To Save 3 Children

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A 28-year-old mother screamed, "I've got to get my babies out," then ran back into her burning house in East St. Louis, Ill., Friday and perished with three of her children.

A fire near Lufkin, Tex., also claimed the lives of three children, while a blaze in Spenard, Alaska, killed two youngsters.

The fire in East St. Louis was touched off by an exploding oil stove.

The bodies of Mrs. Juanita Moore and the three children—Keith, 8, Charlotte, 6, and Venetta, 4—were found in the kitchen of their first floor apartment.

Elmer Davis, an ambulance driver, said Mrs. Moore was found holding the two girls in her arms and the boy by the hand.

Firemen said a two-month-old child of Mrs. Moore's was saved from the fire, which destroyed the servants' quarters of an old mansion turned into an apartment house.

Another mother, Mrs. Martha Newson, 22, dropped her three small children to safety from the second floor and then jumped herself.

At Rocky Springs Tex., 10 miles south of Lufkin, fire leveled the frame home of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. McDonald, killing their three children, Charles, 3, Kathy, 2, and Lary, 1. The cause of the blaze was not determined. Mrs. McDonald, 20, suffered serious burns. Her husband, 21, was away from home.

A flash fire in a trailer home at Spenard, a suburb of Anchorage, Alaska, took the lives of Marie and Steve Simer, ages 3 and 4. A sister, Pamela Sue, 2, suffered burns over 85 per cent of her body. Another sister, Natalie Kay, was treated for smoke inhalation.

Their mother, Mrs. Cecil Simer, had left them alone to go to a coin laundry a few yards away.

Firemen said a stove in the trailer apparently exploded. Mrs. Simer's husband, an airman first class, is stationed at Elmendorf Air Force Base near Anchorage.

Fleeing Cubans Fear Children To Turn Red

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—"We didn't want our children to become Communists."

That statement by a refugee couple was echoed by others in explaining why 292 children left Cuba Friday—253 aboard the SS Shirley Lykes and 39 by special plane.

Parents said Communist indoctrination is the principal objective of Cuban schools under the Fidel Castro government.

Indoctrinators didn't make much headway with 11-year-old Miguel Hernandez, who arrived by plane accompanied only by two dolls, Alberto and Mariquita.

"I didn't like school in Cuba," said the slender brunette. "There was too much talk about communism. I don't like that."

Also, said Miguel (which means "miracles"), "they made us work in sugar cane and coffee fields because they don't have enough workers."

She added: "I didn't go. I said I was sick."

Milagros' father, Osvaldo Hernandez, of San Jose, Costa Rica, sent her the dolls for Epiphany—January 6, when Cubans get their Christmas presents—two years ago.

"You can't buy dolls in Cuba now," said Milagros.

Her mother, Maria Gonzalez, lives in New York and works in a factory. She was met by an aunt.

ley Lykes, the newsmen representing on a pool basis all American news media, were informed that a special program had been arranged for them during their stay in Cuba.

Raul Lazo, a Cuban foreign ministry employee responsible for foreign news correspondents, said he and Antonio Cardoso would be guides for the Americans.

Lazo and Cardoso last Saturday took the newsmen in two late model expensive American automobiles on a tour of Havana, particularly the plush Miramar and Cubanacan sections.

During the tour one auto broke down and another had to be summoned to finish the drive. In the next couple of days the Americans were to see countless automobiles and buses broken down and standing alongside downtown streets as well as rural highways.

Havana, once known for having great numbers of new American automobiles, today can obtain neither new cars nor parts for the old ones. Most cars need mufflers, headlights and ignition parts. Tires, even on vehicles of high echelon government officials, need retreading or replacement.

As a result of this problem, Havana's streets have acquired an oily, sticky coating, sidewalks are covered with oil and the air is filled with nauseous exhaust fumes.

Cuban citizens said the oil and fumes are a result of cars needing mufflers, piston rings and ignition maintenance and of low grade petroleum being refined into gasoline.

On Sunday Lazo said the newsmen would visit a field in Matanzas Province where volunteer workers were cutting sugar cane, then proceed to Varadero Beach, once a popular American resort, now a workers' vacation area.

The tour passed numerous cane fields, then stopped at one just west of the sleepy town of Limonar. Several macheteros — cane cutters—were loading cane on a truck.

The identification was made by Mrs. Dwight Steele, S. Court St. Her father, Gilbert Teegardin, along with Joseph Noecker, were pictured along with the local Cadet Drill Team members.

THE CITY Service Department has an all-out effort last night to rid downtown streets of most of this week's snow accumulation.

Department employees worked throughout the night scraping the white stuff, then hauling it away.

Streets from High to Mound and Pickaway to Western Ave. were cleared by dawn.

Driving in the business area today was considerably easier thanks to the effort.

Supermarket Chief Says He Was Kidnaped

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A Columbus supermarket manager turned up in Ashley, northern Delaware County, and notified the Ohio Highway Patrol Friday he had been kidnapped and robbed of $5,700.

Raymond A. Miller, 36, who runs a Super Duper store on the West Side, told officers two men forced their way into his car at the supermarket parking lot. He had just gotten the money from a bank for store business.

Miller said his accosters drove off with him in his auto. They tied his eyes and wrists, Miller later related to Columbus police, tied him with rope and left him in the rear seat when they left the car west of Delaware on U.S. 42.

Miller said he then freed himself and drove to Ashley.

The missing money, in bills and coins, and the alleged robbers were still sought today.

No Lasting Relief Is Seen From Brutal Weatherman

Freeze Eases, But Snow, Rain Expected Today

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Brutal weather continued to plague the country today as a new band of snow blanketed many areas, freezing rain and drizzle brought traffic to a crawl in other portions and the death toll edged upward.

And a note for optimists—the Weather Bureau says not to expect any quick or lasting relief from winter's several weapons, because there's more to come.

More snow was due in many parts of Ohio today but Ohioans generally were welcoming relief from the arctic cold wave that moved into the state at midweek. Weather Bureau forecasts predicted high temperature readings of 32 in central and southern counties while in the north, the mercury was expected to reach 28.

The Cincinnati area was expecting two inches of new snow while Columbus, Cleveland and other major cities were warned of a possible snowfall of four inches or more.

Nevertheless, the outlook was in sharp contrast to the previous two days of subzero temperatures that sent weathermen thumbing through the record books.

Observers for the U. S. Engineers remain concerned about ice conditions in the Ohio River. Reports of half-full to full of ice chunks had come in all along the waterway from Pittsburgh to Louisville. Traffic was being maintained, however, everywhere but below Louisville where ice was hampering operation of navigation dams.

The Ohio Highway Patrol reported major highways for the most part passable. Exceptions were some routes in the northern part of the state where snow drifts created problems.

In other weather-related developments, traffic was snarled for about five hours in western Columbus as a result of a break in an eight-inch natural gas line. Service was not disrupted, however, and the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. said the break was repaired by Friday midnight.

Another snow-shoveler suffered a fatal heart attack in Cleveland, bringing to 11 the number of such deaths there since the wintry blast arrived.

Cincinnati officials reported that employees of the city water works by late Friday had removed 210 frozen meters—as many as had been removed during the past 15 years.

Below zero readings continued their hold in the Plains states and northern Midwest. One of the coldest readings was -24 in Wausau, Wis.

The coldest sustained temperatures were in the central Dakotas. It was -18 in Aberdeen, S.D., and -16 in Bismarck, N.D. Light snow and subzero readings covered most of Nebraska.

The Pacific Coast was covered by fair skies, but the Northwest was stung by the freezing line which stretched westward across the northern Gulf states through Texas, New Mexico, Arizona, Central Nevada and northward over northeastern California and western Oregon and Washington.

Break Seen Ahead In News Strike

CLEVELAND (AP)—A Cleveland Newspaper Guild official said a bad roadblock to settlement of its contract dispute in the 58-day-old strike against the city's two daily newspapers might be removed today.

The official, who asked not to be identified, said there were signs that the publishers' recent offer on the key union security issue would be accepted at the Plain Dealer unit meeting, scheduled for 2 p. m.

The Cleveland Press and News unit voted 98-95 Thursday to accept management's latest offer on a union security clause and advised negotiators "to continue to negotiate on all other issues for an honorable settlement."

Pulse of U.S. Waterfronts To Beat Again, Strike Ends

NEW YORK (AP)—The pulse beat of the waterfront from Maine to Texas begins throbbing again today after a deadly silence of 34 days.

Some 60,000 longshoremen ended the longest and costliest dock strike in Atlantic maritime history after their leaders received a report that President Kennedy was a "fed up" with local quibbling that threatened to prolong the walkout.

Ex-Con Held In Slaying of Lancasterite

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A 40-year-old former convict, wanted for questioning in the brutal Dec. 19, slaying of Mrs. Virginia Wagner of nearby Lancaster, was arrested today at the home of a Columbus relative.

Rowland R. Lutz, chief of the State Bureau of Probation and Parole, and five Columbus police officers made the arrest. The man was taken to Franklin County Jail to be questioned by Lancaster authorities and parole officials.

They acceded several hours after Kennedy's Assistant Secretary of Labor James J. Reynolds told a Galveston meeting of Texas longshoremen and shippers "The President has tried to keep his hands off this thing as long as he could. Now he's pretty fed up."

Reynolds then stalked out of the meeting. A few hours later, ILA President William V. Bradley, who was in Texas trying to straighten out the situation there, gave the order for a complete return to work on the Atlantic and Gulf coasts. Bradley said local issues would be negotiated later.

The union had held at the start of the strike, Dec. 23, that the walkout would continue until all local issues were settled.

ILA negotiators last Sunday accepted a master contract covering dockworkers from Maine to Virginia. This usually sets the contract pattern for South Atlantic and Gulf Coast longshoremen. However, each port also negotiates local contracts.

The master contract provisions were dictated by a three-man board set up by Kennedy Jan. 16 to mediate the dispute and recommend a settlement. Two days after the ILA accepted the terms, the New York shipping association, the employer group followed suit.

With the return to work, the longshoremen have a month-long backup of cargo to handle.

Warming Trend Not Expected To Last Long in This Area

Local citizens will experience a short-lived break in this week's frigid weather if the thermometer reaches the 32 degrees predicted for today.

However, the warming trend is expected to bring freezing rain today with a chance of snow to night when the mercury is slated to dip near the 16-degree mark. The weatherman is calling for clearing and colder weather tomorrow.

Today's break marks the first time since Tuesday the thermometer has officially registered above the 18-degree level.

Th low was recorded Wednesday when temperatures dropped to 16 below zero.

ALL CITY and county schools were forced to close Thursday and Friday by the arctic blast. All area basketball games were postponed yesterday.

The only cage action slated for tonight is the Williamsport-Bishop Flaget tilt at Williamsport and the Pickaway County Junior High Tournament at Jackson.

A 41-degree temperature reported the day before the cold snap hit the county was the high for the week. A spring-like 57 degrees was reported on Jan. 9 for the year's high.

Old Tailgate Painting Wins Art Contest

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP)—An oil painting that somewhat resembles the tailgate of an old farm truck has won first prize in the West Virginia Centennial Commission's exhibition of painting and sculpture.

Its selection by the exhibition judge, Director James Johnson Sweeney of the Museum of Fine Arts, Houston, Tex., touched off a chorus of howls from citizens, art-lovers and state officials.

The winning painting—in the division for West Virginia artists—brought $1,963 to Joe Moss of Morgantown, W. Va. It is an oil on boards, OLD boards. Old, cracked, broken boards held together by two uprights. The broken frame of a screen door is nailed to the boards. The whole thing is shaded from gray at the top to black at the bottom. A round image—presumably a moon from which the painting gets its name, "West Virginia Moon," is at the left.

The second-place painting—and some of Sweeney's other selections among the 350 entries drawn in the contest—also brought expressions of dismay from some quarters.

Given second place was "Strip Mines," a watercolor of wrinkled paper by Bernie K. Peace of Liberty, W. Va. Some describe it as approximating a psychologists inkblot test. Others see insect stains.

Alcohol in Blood Tops Death Point

EUREKA, Calif. (AP) — When the percentage of alcohol in the blood reaches .15 California police consider the person with the percentage too drunk to drive a car.

Between .15 and .30 the person is so saturated he generally cannot even walk.

When, rarely, a person is able to reach a higher score than .30 without passing out, his life is in danger.

Thursday two Eureka policemen said they had to restrain before they could arrest a very lively 54-year-old logger they said they found intoxicated in his parked car.

When finally subdued Lester Breshers, of Eureka, registered the only .50 blood alcohol score ever recorded in his city.

Control of News Said Impossible

CLEVELAND (AP)—If the American public is uninformed it is because of apathy and indifference, says James C. Hagerty, who was White House news secretary under former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Con Slated For Return To Ohio Pen

DETROIT (AP)—Thomas Viola, brought here from Ohio Penitentiary to enter a plea in U.S. District Court, is being returned to the Columbus prison where he is serving a life term for murder.

Viola, 50, appeared before Judge Thomas Thornton Friday on a 1961 charge of harboring a fugitive, namely himself. An attorney entered a plea of innocent for him.

He escaped Ohio Penitentiary in 1960 and was captured here by FBI agents in March 1961. Two Detroit men, James (Biffo) MacCagnone and Louis Sarkis, are under indictment on fugitive-harboring charges in connection with Viola's arrest. They are awaiting trial.

Viola stood mute during his court appearance. He was returned to the custody of Ohio authorities to await trial.

Viola was sentenced in the slaying of two men in Warren, Ohio, in March 1941. He and another gunman were accused of firing the eight shots that killed Jim Munene, Warren rackets figure, and his nephew, Felix Monfrino, in a Warren steakhouse.

Identical Bids By Electric Firms Bared

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Estes Kefauver said Friday rival electrical goods manufacturers seeking government business submitted bids identical to a hundredth of a cent and he intends to find out why.

Thus the Tennessee Democrat signaled a new inquiry by his Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee into pricing practices in the electrical equipment manufacturing industry.

The identical bids were submitted recently by manufacturers seeking contracts with the Tennessee Valley Authority, Kefauver said in a statement. He did not name the companies and hastened to add that identical bidding is not of itself proof of connivance to fix prices.

In 1960, 29 of the country's biggest electrical manufacturers and seven of their executives were fined or jailed on their conviction of rigging price bids in selling electrical goods to U.S. government agencies and others.

Kefauver's subcommittee subsequently held hearings on the price fixing practices.

Khan is believed to have gone back to his native Fiji Islands, taking along the couple's son, now 7.

Microfilming Aid In Space Work

A microfilming image control board in action.

By HARRY KURSH
Central Press Association
Correspondent

NEW YORK — It was a comparatively serene and routine convention of bank executives in the halcyon climate of Miami — until President Kennedy made his dramatic "quarantine Cuba" address. Suddenly, traditional bankers' reserve melted.

Scores raced to the telephones. All wanted to be certain of one thing: Were their home offices doing everything possible to get valuable records on the microfilm for safe storage in the event of a nuclear disaster?

The scene at the bankers' convention was a tribute to a former bank clerk, George McCarthy. When McCarthy came up with a laboriously handbuilt machine for photographing checks on small film, bankers said it was impractical.

However, the invention gave rise to a new and still-growing technology, microfilming, and put McCarthy on the road to a fortune.

Today, almost every warlike crisis, whether it's a dust up at the Berlin Wall or a brush battle in Asia, brings fresh demands for the services of microfilming.

Essentially, microfilming is a technique of copying documents on special film so that the contents of an entire filing cabinet may be stored in a single canister that could be held in the palm of a hand.

Rhodes' New Job Program Pressed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The new state administration intends to carry through with a campaign promise to create 200,000 new jobs, Industrial Development Director George Wilson says.

Wilson, speaking at an Ohio Chamber of Commerce luncheon here Friday, said an administration-sponsored bill now before the legislature is aimed at creating the jobs by helping finance industrial development and research.

He stressed that funds would be available only to local development groups. A proposal by Gov. James A. Rhodes would provide such funds through revenue bond issues.

any nuclear arms are among the weapons.

Republican national Chairman William E. Miller has charged the Russians now have in Cuba "enough nuclear warheads to blow the roof off the Kennedy mansion in Palm Beach."

Senators who questioned Rusk and McCone told reporters later Russia evidently has built a powerful military-political base in Cuba, but that they had heard nothing to confirm that Cuba now has nuclear warheads.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, of Minnesota, assistant Senate Democratic leader, told newsmen that Rusk and McCone "stand by" the assessment President Kennedy gave his news conference Thursday.

The President said then that "the best information we have is that one ship has arrived since the October crisis which may have had arms on it, possible military cargo. But there has not been a military buildup in that sense of the equipment coming in from outside Cuba."

Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., has declared he has information "confirmed by official government sources," that Russia has poured 20,000 men and munitions into Cuba and that a buildup of Soviet military installations there is continuing.

He said the munitions include warplanes capable of carrying nuclear warheads, and with a range embracing many target areas in the United States and Latin America. But he said he has no knowledge of whether Cuba has received nuclear warheads.

Identical Bids By Electric Firms Bared

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Estes Kefauver said Friday rival electrical goods manufacturers seeking government business submitted bids identical to a hundredth of a cent and he intends to find out why.

Thus the Tennessee Democrat signaled a new inquiry by his Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee into pricing practices in the electrical equipment manufacturing industry.

The identical bids were submitted recently by manufacturers seeking contracts with the Tennessee Valley Authority, Kefauver said in a statement. He did not name the companies and hastened to add that identical bidding is not of itself proof of connivance to fix prices.

In 1960, 29 of the country's biggest electrical manufacturers and seven of their executives were fined or jailed on their conviction of rigging price bids in selling electrical goods to U.S. government agencies and others.

Kefauver's subcommittee subsequently held hearings on the price fixing practices.

Burned by Husband, She Gets Divorced

CINCINNATI (AP)—Mrs. Helen Khan, 30, is divorced from her husband who was acquitted of trying to kill her by throwing a burning liquid on her.

Judge Paul J. George of Hamilton County Domestic Relations Court granted the divorce Friday on grounds of willful absence.

Mohammed Isaac Khan, the husband, disappeared after his acquittal in Portage County Common Pleas Court. Mrs. Khan's divorce complaint said she was hospitalized nine months after the burning at the couple's Brimfield home on July 25, 1959. Khan testified in court she tried to throw the liquid on him.

Khan is believed to have gone back to his native Fiji Islands, taking along the couple's son, now 7.

Veteran Ohio Aides Fight Dismissals

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's Personnel Board of Review has been asked to review the dismissal of two veteran state employees under Gov. James A. Rhodes' wholesale layoff order.

Counsel for Miss Ruth McGinty, who has worked for the state 34 years and could have retired next year, and George Thompson, a 15-year veteran, told the board Friday they should have received "better treatment."

Both Thompson and Miss McGinty were employees of the Highway Department's information office.

Attorney Thomas H. Williams, representing them, said the new Republican administration already has hired a man in the information office at a monthly salary of $785 and has shown intentions of hiring a woman.

Microfilming Aid In Space Work

A microfilming image control board in action.

By HARRY KURSH
Central Press Association Correspondent

NEW YORK — It was a comparatively serene and routine convention of bank executives in the halcyon climate of Miami — until President Kennedy made his dramatic "quarantine Cuba" address. Suddenly, traditional bankers' reserve melted.

Scores raced to the telephones. All wanted to be certain of one thing: Were their home offices doing everything possible to get valuable records on the microfilm for safe storage in the event of a nuclear disaster?

The scene at the bankers' convention was a tribute to a former bank clerk, George McCarthy. When McCarthy came up with a laboriously handbuilt machine for photographing checks on small film, bankers said it was impractical.

However, the invention gave rise to a new and still-growing technology, microfilming, and put McCarthy on the road to a fortune.

Today, almost every warlike crisis, whether it's a dust up at the Berlin Wall or a brush battle in Asia, brings fresh demands for the services of microfilming.

Essentially, microfilming is a technique of copying documents on special film so that the contents of an entire filing cabinet may be stored in a single canister that can be held in the palm of a hand.

Rhodes' New Job Program Pressed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The new state administration intends to carry through with a campaign promise to create 200,000 new jobs, Industrial Development Director George Wilson says.

Wilson, speaking at an Ohio Chamber of Commerce luncheon here Friday, said an administration-sponsored bill now before the legislature is aimed at creating the jobs by helping finance industrial development and research.

He stressed that funds would be available only to local development groups. A proposal by Gov. James A. Rhodes would provide such funds through revenue bond issues.

1962 Ohio Road Toll Is Set at 1,852 Dead

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The year 1962 is over but Ohio's traffic death toll for the 365 days has climbed a little higher.

The department of Highway Safety now says 1,852 persons were killed in traffic mishaps in 1962—two more than in a preliminary report issued Jan. 11.

The total is 10 per cent higher than in 1961, but 3 per cent below 1960's.

any nuclear arms are among the weapons.

Republican national Chairman William E. Miller has charged the Russians now have in Cuba "enough nuclear warheads to blow the roof off the Kennedy mansion in Palm Beach."

Senators who questioned Rusk and McCone told reporters later Russia evidently has built a powerful military-political base in Cuoa, but that they had heard nothing to confirm that Cuba now has nuclear warheads.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, of Minnesota, assistant Senate Democratic leader, told newsmen that Rusk and McCone "stand by" the assessment President Kennedy gave his news conference Thursday.

The President said then that "the best information we have is that one ship has arrived since the October crisis which may have had arms on it, possible military cargo. But there has not been a military buildup in that sense of the equipment coming in from outside Cuba."

Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., has declared he has information "confirmed by official government sources," that Russia has poured 20,000 men and munitions into Cuba and that a buildup of Soviet military installations there is continuing.

He said the munitions include warplanes capable of carrying nuclear warheads, and with a range embracing many target areas in the United States and Latin America. But he said he has no knowledge of whether Cuba has received nuclear warheads.

Pickaway Receives $50,408 Relief Funds

Pickaway county received $50,408.11 from two distributions of poor relief money totaling $12,814,068.99 made today by State Auditor Roger W. Tracy.

These two distributions, together with the $5 million advance distribution made in late December, bring to $17,814,068.99 the total payments made out of the 1962 collection of the 1.65 per cent excise tax paid by the public utilities of the state.

Another distribution of $7,468,483.70 will be sent out to the counties, during February, making for a total distribution of $25,300,552.69. This will represent an increase of $1,540,272.15 over the total distribution at this time last year.

Total collections of the utility taxes were $47,000,731.64, up $3,135,803.50 over the previous year.

The two current distributions include $3,327,585 from the .65 of 1 per cent excise tax, and $7,468,483 as one-half of the 1 per cent excise tax distributed on the basis of population.

Vehicle Sales Tax Collections Increase

Pickaway County motor vehicle sales tax collections continued to climb for the year with $3,421.72 reported for the week ending Jan. 19, according to a release from John D. Herbert, treasurer of the state.

Advance and deficit sales tax payments were $3,197.61 bringing the yearly total to $139,651.56. Comparative figures for similar periods during the preceding fiscal year were not reported by Herbert.

Solon Predicts Accord Soon on Ohio Blue Law

'Best' Rule in U.S.
Expected To Come Out
Of Current Assembly

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Rep. Edmund G. James, R-Noble, expects the current session of the legislature to clear up confusion over Ohio's Sunday closing laws.

"I think that we have the possibility of writing the best law in the United States," says the veteran chairman of the House Judiciary Committee.

Some members are less optimistic. But they display a willingness to tackle the knotty problem that has defied solution in previous sessions. Most are attorneys.

James wants to trade the ban on common labor, basis of present law for a ban on sale of products. Instead of an interminable list of products, he would designate groups such as furniture, motor vehicles and the like. Exemptions would be dealt with similarly.

Such an approach, he explains, would remove present uncertainties haunting enforcement officers because of conflicting court decisions.

Franklin County Prosecutor Earl W. Allison pointed out the problem at committee hearings. He said the present law is not understandable and therefore cannot be enforced.

"We are asking a law which is understandable, interpretable and enforceable," he said on behalf of the Ohio Association of Prosecuting Attorneys.

Similar pleas come from witnesses and organizations over the state.

But committee members assert that none has offered specific suggestions to solve the perplexing problem.

James plans to continue hearings in the hope that someone will come up with ideas before the committee tackles the task of drafting a new law.

The chairman wants copies of Sunday closing laws from other states and a study by the Legislative Service Commission to aid the committee.

The aim of James is to get away from the religious aspects rooted in present laws and deal with Sunday closing on a commercial basis. He feels the problem could be solved along that line without commercializing Sunday. He cited Texas and Michigan laws as examples.

The present law reads: "No person, firm or corporation shall engage in common labor...on Sunday...This section does not apply to work or work of necessity or charity, and does not extend to persons who conscientiously observe the seventh day of the week as the Sabbath..."

Exemptions include labor in connection with travel, entertainment, sports, fairs and the like.

Under hearing by the committee is a proposal for exemptions of food stores such as supermarkets (but not discount houses) and changes in language of the law to eliminate uncertainties. Another bill calls for local option decisions by municipalities and townships on blue laws. More measures are expected to reach the committee soon.

A constitutional amendment proposal failed at the polls last November. Sponsors have not contacted the committee so far.

The 1959 legislature made changes in the statutes dating back more than 130 years but the confusion persisted. If the present legislature substitutes new laws for the old statutes, it will mark the first real change attempted to keep abreast of the times, attorneys assert.

Lake Erie Ice 'Worst' in Years

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—The Coast Guard reports ice conditions on western Lake Erie are the worst in recent years, with windrows up to 14-feet thick.

Comdr. J. D. O'Malley, skipper of the Cutter Tupelo, said ice in the channels is 36 inches thick in some places. The thickest channel ice encountered last winter was 28 inches, he said.

The Tupelo made the trip from Detroit Thursday night with the coal carrier MacNamara, which operates throughout the winter carrying coal from Toledo to Detroit.

Darby Trustees Confronted With Problem

Darby Twp. trustees, wondering how to spend $25,000 obtained from the sale of the Cynthia Bostwick estate, are now faced with still another problem.

A motion to set aside the judgment of the court permitting the trustees to sell the property and use the proceeds for a charitable purpose has been filed in probate court.

Tom Renick, local attorney, acting on behalf of Mrs. Janet Alkire Waller of Milwaukee, Wis., who is the only surviving next of kin of Mrs. Bostwick, has filed the legal action.

In 1909 Mrs. Bostwick died, leaving a 100-acre farm and residence to be used for a home for indigent aged women of Darby Twp. The trustees of the township were to administer the terms of the will.

HOWEVER, Darby trustees have felt there was no apparent need for such a home. The estate was never used for this purpose.

Recently the present trustees of the township requested permission of the courts to sell the property. Mark McElroy, attorney general of Ohio, ruled the property could be sold if the money were used for a charitable purpose as nearly as possible to that stated in the will.

The farm has been sold and the deed transferred to Opal and Edwin Towler.

The trustees are now awaiting the decision of the Pickaway County Probate court before they can spend the money.

Huge Lake Erie Water Line Seen Developing NW Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Rep. Robert Winzler, R-Williams, says the Ohio Legislature will be asked to underwrite an engineering survey for a giant pipeline to carry water from Lake Erie into northwestern Ohio for a new industrial empire.

The ambitious plan was outlined at a meeting here of legislators, public officials and industrial representatives.

Stirring enthusiasm was a prediction by leading economists that northwestern Ohio could become the fastest growth area in the United States.

A University of Chicago professor envisions a 20-mile deep city belt stretching continuously from Milwaukee to Buffalo. The belt would cover the area he expects to become the greatest industrial section on earth. He is Prof. Sverre Pettersen, chairman of the department.

Ohioans describe a lack of adequate water as the major drawback for such development but they see a solution in tapping the Great Lakes for a virtually unlimited supply. They assert this could be done because the outflow from Lake Erie is 125 billion gallons daily, about 50 times the present total water use of the entire Lake Erie watershed in Ohio.

The state plan contemplates a 240-mile pipeline some five feet in diameter. Engineers term the plan feasible because of the flat topography of northwestern Ohio. They assert it complies with the treaty with Canada under which Lake Erie water is limited to the lake watershed. An estimated 65 per cent of water used would return to the lake.

A three-phase study for the line was proposed. Potential users under the first phase include Bowling Green, Columbus Grove, Deshler, Findlay, Fostoria, Leipsic, Lima, McComb North Baltimore, Ottawa and Wapakoneta.

Under the second phase would be Archbold, Bryan, Delta, Edgerton, Stryker, Swanton and Wauseon. The third would embrace Delphos, Paulding and Van Wert. Winzler said the project would be financed with revenue bonds and that a $25,000 survey advance would be repaid from bond proceeds.

Charles A. Lindbergh refused to take his mascot, a pet kitten named "Patsy", on his pioneering transatlantic flight in 1927 because he felt it would be "too dangerous a journey to risk the cat's life."

Cubans Show U.S. Newsmen Their Progress

from their two cars, workers flocked in from nearby fields, joined hands in a circle possibly 40 feet in diameter, swung machetes in the air and began dancing and singing the Communist song "Internationale."

Candido Moreno, 31, a Limonar taxi driver, stepped forward and said, "The people who leave Cuba don't like to work. They are drunkards and other things. People who stay here like to work and are honest people."

Though it was barely noon, the cane cutters began boarding trucks and riding away as the Americans drove off. Cane which they had willingly cut for television and newsreel cameras was left lying on the field.

Lazo and Cardoso, who said he once lived in New York City, took the newsmen Monday to one of the many plush apartment buildings which have been converted into classrooms for the thousands of scholarship students whose living costs are completely paid by the government.

As the two cars drove down First Avenue in Miramar, Lazo picked a teaching center for the Americans to visit. The cars stopped and approximately 300 students, lining patio railings on the building's five floors, began chanting "Vivas, vivas Fidel."

Waiting at the front door of the building, Instituto de Idiomas—Language Institute—was Carlos Lopez, 22, a Cuban-born young man who moved with his parents to New York when he was four. He said he returned to Cuba 18 months ago after attending New York University for two years.

"We have Russians teach Russian, Germans teach German and Czechs teach Czechoslovakian," Lopez said in flawless English. "When I was at NYU an Italian taught me Spanish. What do you think of that?"

Monday afternoon the newsmen were taken back to the ship after visiting the university. They were told they would be picked up that night for a meeting with Blas Roca, rated by some as Cuba's No. 1 Communist; and that Tuesday they would be permitted to visit downtown Havana by daylight.

Lazo and Cardoso never returned and Cuban security officers prevented the newsmen from leaving the dock area again.

Kiwanis Sets Blanket Drive For Algerians

One-Hundred blankets for Algerian refugees by Feb. 1 is the goal set by the Circleville Kiwanis club.

Responding to a plea by Church World Service, local Kiwanians are urging all members and interested persons to participate. Heading the project is Tom Downing, chairman of the club's international relations committee.

Medium to heavy weight blankets — new or used, wool or cotton — are used by the refugees as clothing and as covers.

Downing said there are more than 1.3 million persons in the Mediterranean country of Algeria, living in conditions described by the Church World Service as "in total need."

THE CIRCLEVILLE Kiwanis Club will ship the blankets to the Church World Service office in New York. The Christian Committee for Service in Algeria will distribute them.

Local collection points are 217 N. Pickaway St., 120 E. Main St., 230 Brinks Drive, 168 Montclair Ave and 1040 Sunshine St.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Criticizing the administration's economic policy, Sen. Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio, said Friday Congress must get the federal government out of orbit.

President Kennedy, Lausche said, needs a new group of economic advisors.

Comdr. J. D. O'Malley, skipper of the Cutter Tupelo, said ice in the channels is 36 inches thick in some places. The thickest channel ice encountered last winter was 28 inches, he said.

The Tupelo made the trip from Detroit Thursday night with the coal carrier MacNamara, which operates throughout the winter carrying coal from Toledo to Detroit.

Darby Trustees Confronted With Problem

Darby Twp. trustees, wondering how to spend $25,000 obtained from the sale of the Cynthia Bostwick estate, are now faced with still another problem.

A motion to set aside the judgment of the court permitting the trustees to sell the property and use the proceeds for a charitable purpose has been filed in probate court.

Tom Renick, local attorney, acting on behalf of Mrs. Janet Alkire Waller of Milwaukee, Wis. who is the only surviving next of kin of Mrs. Bostwick, has filed the legal action.

In 1909 Mrs. Bostwick died, leaving a 100-acre farm and residence to be used for a home for indigent aged women of Darby Twp. The trustees of the township were to administer the terms of the will.

HOWEVER, Darby trustees have felt there was no apparent need for such a home. The estate was never used for this purpose.

Recently the present trustees of the township requested permission of the courts to sell the property. Mark McElroy, attorney general of Ohio, ruled the property could be sold if the money were used for a charitable purpose as nearly as possible to that stated in the will.

The farm has been sold and the deed transferred to Opal and Edwin Towler.

The trustees are now awaiting the decision of the Pickaway County Probate court before they can spend the money.

Huge Lake Erie Water Line Seen Developing NW Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Rep. Robert Winzler, R-Williams, says the Ohio Legislature will be asked to underwrite an engineering survey for a giant pipeline to carry water from Lake Erie into northwestern Ohio for a new industrial empire.

The ambitious plan was outlined at a meeting here of legislators, public officials and industrial representatives.

Stirring enthusiasm was a prediction by leading economists that northwestern Ohio could become the fastest growth area in the United States.

A University of Chicago professor envisions a 20-mile deep city belt stretching continuously from Milwaukee to Buffalo. The belt would cover the area he expects to become the greatest industrial section on earth. He is Prof. Sverre Pettersen, chairman of the department.

Ohioans describe a lack of adequate water as the major drawback for such development but they see a solution in tapping the Great Lakes for a virtually unlimited supply. They assert this could be done because the outflow from Lake Erie is 125 billion gallons daily, about 50 times the present total water use of the entire Lake Erie watershed in Ohio.

The state plan contemplates a 240-mile pipeline some five feet in diameter. Engineers term the plan feasible because of the flat topography of northwestern Ohio. They assert it complies with the treaty with Canada under which Lake Erie water is limited to the lake watershed. An estimated 65 per cent of water used would return to the lake.

A three-phase study for the line was proposed. Potential users under the first phase include Bowling Green, Columbus Grove, Deshler, Findlay, Fostoria, Leipsie, Lima, McComb North Baltimore, Ottawa and Wapakoneta.

Under the second phase would be Archbold, Bryan, Delta, Edgerton, Stryker, Swanton and Wauseon. The third would embrace Delphos, Paulding and Van Wert.

Winzler said the project would be financed with revenue bonds and that a $25,000 survey advance would be repaid from bond proceeds.

Charles A. Lindbergh refused to take his mascot, a pet kitten named "Patsy", on his pioneering transatlantic flight in 1927 because he felt it would be "too dangerous a journey to risk the cat's life."

from their two cars, workers flocked in from nearby fields, joined hands in a circle possibly 40 feet in diameter, swung machetes in the air and began dancing and singing the Communist song "Internationale."

Candido Moreno, 31, a Limonar taxi driver, stepped forward and said, "The people who leave Cuba don't like to work. They are drunkards and other things. People who stay here like to work and are honest people."

Though it was barely noon, the cane cutters began boarding trucks and riding away as the Americans drove off. Cane which they had willingly cut for television and newsreel cameras was left lying on the field.

Lazo and Cardoso, who said he once lived in New York City, took the newsmen Monday to one of the many plush apartment buildings which have been converted into classrooms for the thousands of scholarship students whose living costs are completely paid by the government.

As the two cars drove down First Avenue in Miramar, Lazo picked a teaching center for the Americans to visit. The cars stopped and approximately 300 students, lining patio railings on the building's five floors, began chanting "Vivas, vivas Fidel."

Waiting at the front door of the building, Instituto de Idiomas—Language Institute—was Carlos Lopez, 22, a Cuban-born young man who moved with his parents to New York when he was four. He said he returned to Cuba 18 months ago after attending New York University for two years.

"We have Russians teach Russian, Germans teach German and Czechs teach Czechoslovakian," Lopez said in flawless English. "When I was at NYU an Italian taught me Spanish. What do you think of that?"

Monday afternoon the newsmen were taken back to the ship after visiting the university. They were told they would be picked up that night for a meeting with Blas Roca, rated by some as Cuba's No. 1 Communist; and that Tuesday they would be permitted to visit downtown Havana by daylight.

Lazo and Cardoso never returned and Cuban security officers prevented the newsmen from leaving the dock area again.

Kiwanis Sets Blanket Drive For Algerians

One-Hundred blankets for Algerian refugees by Feb. 1 is the goal set by the Circleville Kiwanis club.

Responding to a plea by Church World Service, local Kiwanians are urging all members and interested persons to participate. Heading the project is Tom Downing, chairman of the club's international relations committee.

Medium to heavy weight blankets — new or used, wool or cotton — are used by the refugees as clothing and as covers.

Downing said there are more than 1.3 million persons in the Mediterranean country of Algeria, living in conditions described by the Church World Service as "in total need."

THE CIRCLEVILLE Kiwanis Club will ship the blankets to the Church World Service office in New York. The Christian Committee for Service in Algeria will distribute them. Local collection points are 217 N. Pickaway St., 120 E. Main St., 230 Brinks Drive, 168 Montclair Ave and 1040 Sunshine St.

Lausche Raps JFK's Economic Policy

WASHINGTON (AP)—Criticizing the administration's economic policy, Sen. Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio, said Friday Congress must get the federal government out of orbit.

The Ohioan called the $99 billion budget for next year "a challenge to the prudence and frugality not only to the Congress but to everyone who believes that citizenship entails responsibility."

President Kennedy, Lausche said, needs a new group of economic advisors.

The present group, he said, is advocating the "fantastic and unbelievable proposition that the more we spend and the less we tax the better off we will be."

Days Are Longer

Now that the new year is well under way, there is sudden realization that the days are getting longer. Letter to The Editor

EDITOR'S NOTE—We welcome letters to the editor. They must be signed by the writer with a complete return address. However the name and address will not be used in the published letter upon request of the writer. Opinions expressed in this column are those of the writers and not necessarily those of The Herald.

To the Editor:

I wonder if the conscience of the person whose car ran into and killed a Basset hound on N. Pickaway St. bothers him? Or does he think "it was just a dog?"

The driver did not stop. Had he not been driving fast he could have missed the dog.

Pickaway St. is a race track—dogs and children are in danger. No one ever seems to get caught.

There was a newspaper article recently noting that some communities fine owners of dogs and puppies who keep them tied to doghouses day and night in winter weather.

If such a law were enforced here, there would be quite a few persons fined. Of course, maybe it would depend on the authorities pressing charges.

You can't hide your head in the sand and pretend that VD doesn't exist. Not when it's mushrooming—especially among teenagers.

One victim in four is under 20. Many are only 14 or 15.

VD spreads only by direct contact. Sometimes kissing is enough. The fragile germs can't live outside the body. Public fountains and washrooms don't spread VD.

There are two main kinds.

The cork-screw—like syphilis germ can destroy any organ. It still kills thousands each year.

The infection starts with an innocent-looking sore where germs penetrated the skin three to 10 weeks earlier. This sore heals without treatment.

A little later, syphilis germs invade the bloodstream and bring on a flu-like illness—fever, headache, sore throat and a blotchy rash.

All this soon fades, and the germs go underground.

For 10 to 25 years they lurk silently. And then, sudden mental illness! Blindness! Crippling! Heart trouble!

Blood tests can detect the lurking infection.

In most states you have to have one before marriage and again before each baby is born. Babies can catch syphilis from an infected mother.

Years of complicated treatments have now been boiled down to a few shots of penicillin.

The other main kind of VD brings on a discharge and burning

when male victims empty the bladder. In females, this infection lingers silently, damaging tubes and other internal organs.

Check with your doctor or health department if you suspect VD. Don't waste time or money on quack cures who advertise cures for social or men's diseases.

Teenagers are developing attitudes and standards to guide future conduct—including sex.

You can't force your youngsters to make the right choice, but if he loves and admires you, he'll model himself after you. And his high standards will rule out any possibility of VD.

Administrative Monster

By John Chamberlain

The pressure on Congress to "do something" about strikes and lockouts is building up, and the danger is that an unholy trade will be made, with the big union chiefs yielding to some form of compulsory arbitration in exchange for the union shop. This would give the union chiefs security for themselves by delivering the working men to them without their having to lift a finger to persuade anybody in the rank and file.

Since, according to the well-known law of the conservation of energy, nobody likes to expend any effort that can be avoided, I suspect that the big union bosses would cheerfully accept a limitation on the right to strike if, in so doing, they would be eliminating all the difficult problems of organization.

Much is being made at the moment about the discomforts that are caused by labor strife. Newspaper readers, deprived of the metropolitan press in New York City and in Cleveland, Ohio have had to get their news via out-of-town papers or radio. The East Coast longshoremen's strike has caused a hitch in the flow of many things, from bananas to imported Volkswagen. People have had to walk to work in Philadelphia. But these are mere inconveniences; they deprive nobody of basic liberties for the long pull.

The real menace of the union movement is its drive to compulsion on the human being. The notion that men must be forced into unions as a condition of employment is deeply ingrained in fundamental philosophy of big union chiefs; they have come to regard the big union as a sort of substitute for the political state.

This assumption is immediately apparent in all their actions. James Carey, head of the International Union of Electrical Workers, is girding to wring the union shop out of Westinghouse and General Electric. On the Pacific Coast the leaders of the aerospace unions are trying to connive with the federal government to force the union shop on their own reluctant followers. But the real temper of the union leaders comes out even more strongly in their words.

For example, there is the record of an old exchange between Senator Barry Goldwater and Walter Reuther, the boss of the United Automobile Workers. When Goldwater asked Reuther, "What about the man who just does not want to belong to a union?" the labor chief replied: "Well, if a fellow works in a General Motors plant and does not want to belong to a union, he does not have to work there."

"But suppose he wants to work there?" Goldwater insisted. Where upon Mr. Reuther let his Statist preconceptions come to the surface. "If you want to live in a certain community," he said, "and you want the benefits of the work of that community, you have to pay taxes in that community."

You do not have to live in that community. That is the freedom of choice."

Thus the cat emerges from the bag: Mr. Reuther considers union dues, levied compulsorily on every employee in an automobile plant, to be the equivalent of taxes. They are not a voluntary contribution freely agreed upon by union members who hope to get their quid pro quo in higher wages in exchange for relinquishing a part of their weekly pay checks.

When a union boss starts thinking about union dues as taxes that must be paid to his organization willy-nilly, it is easy to see how the Statist frame of mind gets extended to other things. Stated not only have the power to levy taxes, they also have a monopoly of police and military force in the territory subject to their jurisdiction. The union boss who is granted the power to tax his followers will hardly boggle about raising an army or a squad of cops to defend his realm. Thus the practice of employing goons to whip recalcitrants into line is just a step away from the imposition of compulsory taxes.

No doubt Reuther, who is a nice enough fellow in his personal relationships, fails to realize the full implications of his dues-equal-taxes philosophy. But if Reuther and his kind succeed in foisting compulsory unionization on the country as a general condition of employment, they will create an administrative monster which, in the hands of a less scrupulous generation of labor leaders, could mean slavery for practically everybody.

GOP Solon, JFK Differ on Cuba

Aiken Calls Soviet Buildup 'Enormous'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., after a briefing by Secretary of State Dean Rusk, said the Soviets have an "enormously strong military and political base in Cuba," and it is growing stronger.

Aiken declined to discuss what Rusk and John A. McCone, Central Intelligence Agency director, had told a Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee at the closed-door meeting.

But, he said, "I think Russia has built an enormously strong military and political base in Cuba, much stronger than it was six months ago."

"The strengthening of this military-political fortress is continuing."

President Kennedy has said there has been no new military buildup in Cuba.

Kennedy said "the best information we have" from continued U.S. air surveillance and other intelligence is that one ship arrived in Cuba since the October crisis "which may have arms on it, possibly military cargo."

"But there has not been a military buildup in that sense of the equipment coming in from outside of Cuba," he said. "There is no evidence that this ship carried any offensive weapons."

Kennedy's appraisal of the state of Prime Minister Fidel Castro's arsenal contradicts reports Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., and others say they have received. Their claim is that Castro has been getting additional weapons and is now militarily much stronger than he was six months ago.

These reports prompted Chairman Wayne Morse, D-Ore., to call Rusk and Central Intelligence Agency representatives before his Latin-American affairs subcommittee for closed-door testimony.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

THE STAFF at an upper Park Avenue hospital recall with relish the day one of the biggest doctors on the staff shook a pampered patient by the arm, looked about at the lavish baskets of fruit and flowers in the room, and announced, "You have now occupied this room for four weeks, though you know there is a long waiting list. So I have just had a definitive consultation about your case with Doctor Rodgers, Doctor Lippman, Doctor Shannon, and Doctor Hayes—and we all will give you exactly twenty minutes to get the heck out of that bed!"

David Green, in a Cosmopolitan article on "news slanting," cites the famous series of headlines in a Paris journal reporting the day-to-day progress of Napoleon's escape from his first exile in Elba:

First Day: "The Corsican Monster Has Landed in The Gulf of Juan."
Second Day: "The Cannibal Approaches Grasse."
Third Day: "The Usurper Has Entered Grenoble."
Fourth Day: "Bonaparte Cheered by Lyons Populace."
Fifth Day: "Napoleon Awaited Eagerly in Fontainebleau."
Sixth Day: "His Imperial Majesty Returns in Triumph to Paris."

One of the greatest New Year's Eve parties ever given in New York was hosted by the late editor of Vanity Fair, Frank Crownshield. Printed invitations read, "Admit Bearer and One Wife."

You can't hide your head in the sand and pretend that VD doesn't exist. Not when it's mushrooming—especially among teenagers.

One victim in four is under 20. Many are only 14 or 15.

VD spreads only by direct contact. Sometimes kissing is enough. The fragile germs can't live outside the body. Public fountains and washrooms don't spread VD.

There are two main kinds. The cork - screw - like syphilis germ can destroy any organ. It still kills thousands each year.

The infection starts with an innocent - looking sore where germs penetrated the skin three to 10 weeks earlier. This sore heals without treatment.

A little later, syphilis germs invade the bloodstream and bring on a flu-like illness—fever, headache, sore throat and a blotchy rash.

All this soon fades, and the germs go underground.

For 10 to 25 years they lurk silently. And then, sudden mental illness! Blindness! Crippling! Heart trouble!

Blood tests can detect the lurking infection.

In most states you have to have one before marriage and again before each baby is born. Babies can catch syphilis from an infected mother.

Years of complicated treatments have now been boiled down to a few shots of penicillin.

The other main kind of VD brings on a discharge and burning

when male victims empty the bladder. In females, this infection lingers silently, damaging tubes and other internal organs.

Check with your doctor or health department if you suspect VD. Don't waste time or money on quacketers who advertise cures for social or men's diseases.

Teenagers are developing attitudes and standards to guide future conduct—including sex.

You can't force your youngsters to make the right choice, but if he loves and admires you, he'll model himself after you. And his high standards will rule out any possibility of VD.

Administrative Monster

By John Chamberlain

The pressure on Congress to "do something" about strikes and lockouts is building up, and the danger is that an unholy trade will be made, with the big union chiefs yielding to some form of compulsory arbitration in exchange for the union shop. This would give the union chiefs security for themselves by delivering the working men to them without their having to lift a finger to persuade anybody in the rank and file.

Since, according to the well-known law of the conservation of energy, nobody likes to expend any effort that can be avoided, I suspect that the big union bosses would cheerfully accept a limitation on the right to strike if, in so doing, they would be eliminating all the difficult problems of organization.

Much is being made at the moment about the discomforts that are caused by labor strife. Newspaper readers, deprived of the metropolitan press in New York City and in Cleveland, Ohio have had to get their news via out-of-town papers or radio. The East Coast longshoremen's strike has caused a hitch in the flow of many things, from bananas to imported Volkswagen. People have had to walk to work in Philadelphia. But these are mere inconveniences; they deprive nobody of basic liberties for the long pull.

The real menace of the union movement is its drive to compulsion on the human being. The notion that men must be forced into unions as a condition of employment is deeply ingrained in fundamental philosophy of big union chiefs; they have come to regard the big union as a sort of substitute for the political state.

This assumption is immediately apparent in all their actions. James Carey, head of the International Union of Electrical Workers, is girding to wring the union shop out of Westinghouse and General Electric. On the Pacific Coast the leaders of the aerospace unions are trying to convince with the federal government to force the union shop on their own reluctant followers. But the real temper of the union leaders comes out even more strongly in their words.

For example, there is the record of an old exchange between Senator Barry Goldwater and Walter Reuther, the boss of the United Automobile Workers. When Goldwater asked Reuther, "What about the man who just does not want to belong to a union?" the labor chief replied: "Well, if a fellow works in a General Motors plant and does not want to belong to a union, he does not have to work there."

"But suppose he wants to work there?" Goldwater insisted. Whereupon Mr. Reuther let his Statist preconceptions come to the surface. "If you want to live in a certain community," he said, "and you want the benefits of the work of that community, you have to pay taxes in that community."

You do not have to live in that community. That is the freedom of choice."

Thus the cat emerges from the bag: Mr. Reuther considers union dues, levied compulsorily on every employee in an automobile plant, to be the equivalent of taxes. They are not a voluntary contribution freely agreed upon by union members who hope to get their quid pro quo in higher wages in exchange for relinquishing a part of their weekly pay checks.

When a union boss starts thinking about union dues as taxes that must be paid to his organization willy-nilly, it is easy to see how the Statist frame of mind gets extended to other things. Stated not only have the power to levy taxes, they also have a monopoly of police and military force in the territory subject to their jurisdiction. The union boss who is granted the power to tax his followers will hardly boggle about raising an army or a squad of cops to defend his realm. Thus the practice of employing goons to whip recalcitrants into line is just a step away from the imposition of compulsory taxes.

No doubt Reuther, who is a nice enough fellow in his personal relationships, fails to realize the full implications of his dues-equals-taxes philosophy. But if Reuther and his kind succeed in foisting compulsory unionization on the country as a general condition of employment, they will create an administrative monster which, in the hands of a less scrupulous generation of labor leaders, could mean slavery for practically everybody.

Town's Only Industry Folds

300 Jobs Forfeited By 1,621 Michiganders

YALE, Mich. (AP)—The 1,621 men, women and children in this eastern Michigan community depended to a large extent on 300 jobs and a $1 million yearly payroll of the town's only industry.

The jobs and the payroll vanished this week.

The town is gripped by fear and worry about the future.

What to do about this—rather than the subzero temperatures that are the lowest in years—is the question.

For the older folk Lavern Carl, 53, put it thus: "At our age, there isn't much you can do."

Mrs. Carl and her husband, 62, were employed 35 years in the Yale Woolen Mills. The mills closed Wednesday.

"We in management did a lot of soul searching before deciding we simply had to close," said Robert E. Andrea, secretary-treasurer of the firm founded in 1881.

"The bottom has been dropping out of the wool and textile industry for years," Andrea said. "We kept in business against increasing odds merely to provide employment. So many depended on us we couldn't stop as long as there was any hope. Losses finally wiped that out."

Yale, about 20 miles northwest of Port Huron, is beset by other problems.

The State Health Department has ordered the town to build a new sewage plant at an estimated cost of $400,000. There's a $1 million bond issue for a needed new school to be voted on in April.

The textile plant paid a quarter of the town taxes.

Letter to The Editor

EDITOR'S NOTE—We welcome letters to the editor. They must be signed by the writer with a complete return address. However the name and address will not be used in the published letter upon request of the writer. Opinions expressed in this column are those of the writers and not necessarily those of The Herald.

To the Editor:

I wonder if the conscience of the person whose car ran into and killed a Basset hound on N. Pickaway St. bothers him? Or does he think "it was just a dog?"

The driver did not stop. Had he not been driving fast he could have missed the dog.

Pickaway St. is a race track—dogs and children are in danger. No one ever seems to get caught.

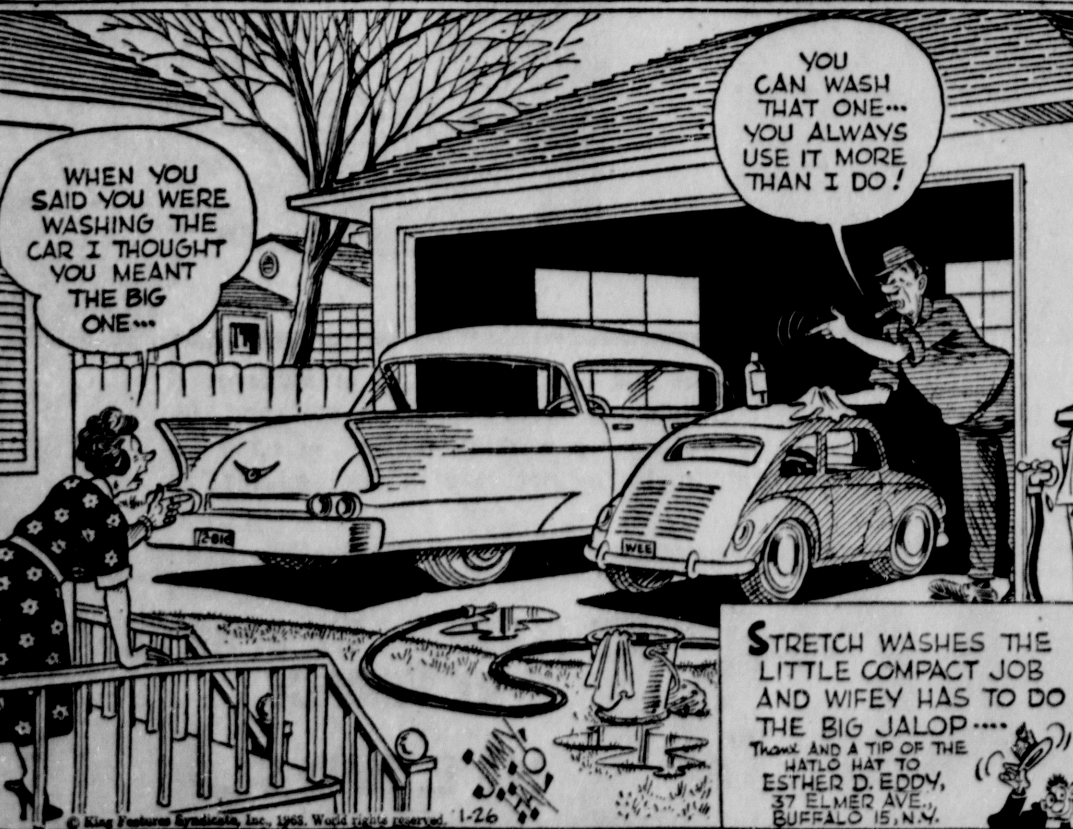

There was a newspaper article recently noting that some communities fine owners of dogs and puppies who keep them tied to doghouses day and night in winter weather.

If such a law were enforced here, there would be quite a few persons fined. Of course, maybe it would depend on the authorities pressing charges.

Indian Woman Shares Some Eastern Recipes

By ALICE DENHOFF

It is wonderfully interesting and stimulating to dine with folk from abroad who are visiting this country. What we enjoy, as much as the dinner and conversation, is the opportunity to "talk shop" with out hostess and discover how she adapts her native cuisine to the foods available here.

This we did, recently, with a charming lady from India. She gave us some of her recipes, including a spicy and different way of doing broiled shrimp.

MALABARI JHINGA

1 lb. raw American-type shrimp
1/2 c. boiling water
1 tsp. salt
1 tsp. ground coriander
1/2 tsp. instant minced onion
12 black peppercorns
1/4 c. (1/2 stick) butter or margarine
1 1/2 tsp. salt, additional
1/2 tsp. ground cumin seed
1 tsp. ground turmeric
2 tsp. lemon or lime juice
8 wedges fresh lemon or lime
Peel and devein raw shrimp nice big ones. Set aside.

Place in saucepan with boiling water, salt 1/2 tsp. of the coriander, onion and peppercorns. Bring to boiling point.

Add peeled shrimp and cook 2 min. or until shrimps begin to turn pink. Remove from heat and drain off water.

Melt butter or margarine. Add additional salt, remaining spices, rest of coriander and lemon or lime juice. Mix well. Stir in shrimp.

Turn into shallow pan; spread over surface. Broil 5 min. or until shrimp are pink and slightly browned around the edges. Serve with wedges.

Makes about 8 servings (5 shrimp for each).

The next recipe is nice for now, a dish of rice steamed with lamb that serves 8 to 10.

YAKHNI PILAU

2 lbs. lamb shanks
1/2 c. yogurt
4 c. cold water
2 1/2 tsp. salt
2 c. long-grained rice
2 tbs. butter or margarine
4 whole cardamom seeds, cracked
4 whole cloves
1 1/2-inch stick cinnamon
1/4 tsp. caraway seeds
1 bay leaf
4 c. lamb broth and water
1 (4-oz.) can white mushrooms

Purchase lean lamb shanks and trim off all excess fat.

Mix with yogurt and marinate 1/2 hr.

Add 2 c. cold water and 1 tsp. salt. Cover and simmer 3 hrs.

Cool; trim all lean meat from bones. Discard bones. Save meat for later use.

Chill stock; lift off all hardened fat and discard it. Set stock aside.

Soak rice 30 min. in remaining 2 c. cold water. Drain well. Melt butter or margarine in a 4-qt. saucepan.

The cardamom and cloves in cheesecloth bag and add to butter along with rest of seasonings. Sauté 2 min. Add well-drained rice. Stir and cook 3 to 4 min.

Add lamb broth and water, remaining salt, meat trimmed from bones and mushrooms.

Cover and bring to boiling point; boil 15 min. or until rice is tender and grains stand apart. Do not stir.

Lift out spice bag and loose spices. Serve hot.

Here's a new version of cucumber salad.

RAITE

1 cucumber, peeled
1/2 tsp. salt
1 1/2 c. yogurt
Paprika
Black pepper
Grate cucumber. Let stand for several hours. Drain and squeeze out water.

Beat yogurt and fold in grated cucumber.

Garnish with paprika and pepper.

Don't stint on coffee, in brewing it, to serve (without cream) in small cups after dinner. You'll need as much as 3 or 4 tablespoons of coffee for each measuring cup of water. Have hot water on hand for those guests who like a weaker brew.

Dear Abby: Things Could Be Worse!

by Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am married to a man who is twice my age. He was an old bachelor when I married him. He doesn't want me to work (I can type) because we don't need the money. My life is boring. He doesn't want children because they make him "nervous." I came from a poor family and was blinded by the assurance of financial security and an easy life. But now I'm sorry I married him. He is very good to me and gives me all the material things I want, but I'm not happy. When he passes on, he'll leave everything to me. Would I be a fool to walk out now?

DEAR DARLING: Although you married for the wrong reasons you can still have a reasonably happy and useful life. Get into volunteer work. Work with children and underprivileged people. Perhaps when you see women your age who were so "blinded" by love they married men who gave them lives of hard work, poverty and more children than they can feed, you'll appreciate your lot and a man who is good to you. I don't recommend marrying for money, but since you did—look for the silver lining.

DEAR ABBY: I am 15 and the oldest of five children. When I was 12 our Daddy died and a year later Mamma married again. Abby, there is something wrong with this man. There are things I can't even tell my mother about. Our house is like a jail. He goes through everyone's drawers and listens in on all phone calls. He acts like a peeping Tom. He walks into all the rooms of the house without knocking even if the door is closed. (No locks, he took them all off.) In order to get some privacy while taking a bath I put a chair in front of the door and he got so mad he took the door off by the hinges. If something isn't done about him, I am going to run away.

DEAR FRIGHTENED: Your new father sounds like a sick man. Tell your mother how you feel about him and why—and don't spare the details. When she realizes that her husband cannot be permitted to behave in his present manner, you'll have peace and privacy. But not until.

DEAR ABBY: We are parents of a very active 11-year-old boy who is the leader of his neighborhood gang. We are proud of his qualities of leadership, but he wants too much freedom too soon.

We have a full half-acre lot behind our house where our son and his gang have always played.

Now he is trying to persuade us to let him build a tree house in a wooded area three blocks from our home. We don't like this idea Abby. Are we being overly-protective? None of the other mothers is in favor of the tree house either. What do you think?

SMALL TOWN MOTHER
DEAR MOTHER: Tree houses are for the birds. You need not apologize for refusing to let an 11-year-old boy have a tree house in a wooded area three blocks from home. Stick to your decision.

DEAR ABBY: I plan to be married this summer and have a question no one seems able to answer for me. I have heard a lot about "wedding bells" but have never heard them rung at a wedding. If there are such things, when are they rung, and who rings them? Thank you.

BRIDE-TO-BE
DEAR BRIDE: Wedding bells are the church bells! And if your church has church bells, the person whose job it is to ring the bells can ring them when the wedding guests enter the church and while they depart after the ceremony.

What's on your mind? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Raveled Sleeve of Care

YUMA, Ariz. (AP) — Mayor George Shackelford asked some questions after noting a city expenditure of $44 for yarn and knitting needles.

It turned out this was for a program through which the Parks and Recreation Department said it was teaching children to make good use of their time knitting "useful products."

If you want to broil pineapple rings (canned) to serve with a meat course, be sure to drain and dry them thoroughly before brushing with melted butter or margarine. If you like, you may add a little honey and soy sauce to the butter.

New Baby Kept In Glass Box

Temperature, Sound Controls Maintained

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Not many girls of Kelly Farrell's age live in a glass paneled box complete with soundproofing and temperature controls.

Kelly's parents are Mary and Walt Farrell, University of Miami psychology majors. They feel it's all for Kelly's good. She is one week old.

"In an age when Americans are using color television, automatic dishwashers and other complex gadgets, they are still raising their children like frontier people," said the father, 23.

The big, box-like crib is germ free and maintains an even 80-degree temperature. Kelly is expected to use the crib for two years.

Even her diapers don't have to be changed as often says the mother, 17, who started college at 14. Moisture drains through Kelly's plastic, blanket-less sleeping surface into a pan underneath the crib.

The young parents say they purchased the led over friends' objections.

"We take the baby out for feeding, to play with and for most of the other reasons people take their babies out of cribs," they added.

Mary and Walt chose the crib because they say it is climate controlled and comfortable, safe, with no fears the baby could smother, and partially soundproof cutting noise down for baby, not to mention the parents and the neighbors.

Wife Preservers

Baking-powder biscuits will come out a golden brown, rather than white, if you add a teaspoon of sugar along with dry ingredients.

Before you chill cornmeal mush (for polenta) you may brush the surface with melted butter or margarine to prevent a crust from forming.

Indian Woman Shares Some Eastern Recipes

By ALICE DENHOFF

It is wonderfully interesting and stimulating to dine with folk from abroad who are visiting this country. What we enjoy, as much as the dinner and conversation, is the opportunity to "talk shop" with out hostess and discover how she adapts her native cuisine to the foods available here.

This we did, recently, with a charming lady from India. She gave us some of her recipes, including a spicy and different way of doing broiled shrimp.

MALABARI JHINGA

1 lb. raw American-type shrimp
1/2 c. boiling water
1 tsp. salt
1 tsp. ground coriander
1/2 tsp. instant minced onion
12 black peppercorns
1/4 c. (1/2 stick) butter or margarine
1/2 tsp. salt, additional
1/2 tsp. ground cumin seed
1 tsp. ground turmeric
2 tsp. lemon or lime juice
8 wedges fresh lemon or lime
Peel and devein raw shrimp nice big ones). Set aside.

Place in saucepan with boiling water, salt 1/2 tsp. of the coriander, onion and peppercorns. Bring to boiling point.

Add peeled shrimp and cook 2 min. or until shrimps begin to turn pink. Remove from heat and drain off water.

Melt butter or margarine. Add additional salt, remaining spices, rest of coriander and lemon or lime juice. Mix well. Stir in shrimp.

Turn into shallow pan; spread over surface. Broil 5 min. or until shrimp are pink and slightly browned around the edges. Serve with wedges.

Makes about 8 servings (5 shrimp for each).

The next recipe is nice for now, a dish of rice steamed with lamb that serves 8 to 10.

YAKHNI PILAU

2 lbs. lamb shanks
1/2 c. yogurt
4 c. cold water
2 1/2 tsp. salt
2 c. long-grained rice
2 tbsp. butter or margarine
4 whole cardamom seeds, cracked
6 whole cloves
1 2-inch stick cinnamon
1/4 tsp. caraway seeds
1 bay leaf
4 c. lamb broth and water
1 (4-oz.) can white mushrooms
Purchase lean lamb shanks and trim off all excess fat.

Mix with yogurt and marinate 1/2 hr.
Add 2 c. cold water and 1 tsp. salt. Cover and simmer 3 hrs. Cool; trim all lean meat from bones. Discard bones. Save meat for later use.

Chill stock; lift off all hardened fat and discard it. Set stock aside.

Soak rice 30 min. in remaining 2 c. cold water. Drain well. Melt butter or margarine in a 4-qt. saucepan.

The cardamom and cloves in cheesecloth bag and add to butter along with rest of seasonings. Sauté 2 min. Add well-drained rice. Stir and cook 3 to 4 min.

Add lamb broth and water, remaining salt, meat trimmed from bones and mushrooms.

Dear Abby: Things Could Be Worse!

by Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am married to a man who is twice my age. He was an old bachelor when I married him. He doesn't want me to work (I can type) because we don't need the money. My life is boring. He doesn't want children because they make him "nervous." I came from a poor family and was blinded by the assurance of financial security and an easy life. But now I'm sorry I married him. He is very good to me and gives me all the material things I want, but I'm not happy. When he passes on, he'll leave everything to me. Would I be a fool to walk out now?

DEAR DARLING: Although you married for the wrong reasons you can still have a reasonably happy and useful life. Get into volunteer work. Work with children and underprivileged people. Perhaps when you see women your age who were so "blinded" by love they married men who gave them lives of hard work, poverty and more children than they can feed, you'll appreciate your lot and a man who is good to you. I don't recommend marrying for money, but since you did—look for the silver lining.

DEAR ABBY: I am 15 and the oldest of five children. When I was 12 our Daddy died and a year later Mamma married again. Abby, there is something wrong with this man. There are things I can't even tell my mother about. Our house is like a jail. He goes through everyone's drawers and listens in on all phone calls. He acts like a peeping Tom. He walks into all the rooms of the house without knocking even if the door is closed. (No locks, he took them all off.) In order to get some privacy while taking a bath I put a chair in front of the door and he got so mad he took the door off by the hinges. If something isn't done about him, I am going to run away.

DEAR FRIGHTENED: Your new father sounds like a sick man. Tell your mother how you feel about him and why—and don't spare the details. When she realizes that her husband cannot be permitted to behave in his present manner, you'll have peace and privacy. But not until.

DEAR ABBY: We are parents of a very active 11-year-old boy who is the leader of his neighborhood gang. We are proud of his qualities of leadership, but he wants too much freedom too soon.

We have a full half-acre lot behind our house where our son and his gang have always played.

Now he is trying to persuade us to let him build a tree house in a wooded area three blocks from our home. We don't like this idea. Are we being overly-protective? None of the other mothers is in favor of the tree house either. What do you think?

DEAR MOTHER: Tree houses are for the birds. You need not apologize for refusing to let an 11-year-old boy have a tree house in a wooded area three blocks from home. Stick to your decision.

DEAR ABBY: I plan to be married this summer and have a question no one seems able to answer for me. I have heard a lot about "wedding bells" but have never heard them rung at a wedding. If there are such things, when are they rung, and who rings them? Thank you.

DEAR BRIDE: Wedding bells are the church bells! And if your church has church bells, the person whose job it is to ring the bells can ring them when the wedding guests enter the church and while they depart after the ceremony.

What's on your mind? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Raveled Sleeve of Care

YUMA, Ariz. (AP) — Mayor George Shackleford asked some questions after noting a city expenditure of $44 for yarn and knitting needles.

It turned out this was for a program through which the Parks and Recreation Department said it was teaching children to make good use of their time knitting "useful products."

New Baby Kept In Glass Box

Temperature, Sound Controls Maintained

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Not many girls of Kelly Farrell's age live in a glass paneled box complete with soundproofing and temperature controls.

Kelly's parents are Mary and Walt Farrell, University of Miami psychology majors. They feel it's all for Kelly's good. She is one week old.

"In an age when Americans are using color television, automatic dishwashers and other complex gadgets, they are still raising their children like frontier people," said the father, 23.

The big, box-like crib is germ free and maintains an even 80-degree temperature. Kelly is expected to use the crib for two years.

Even her diapers don't have to be changed as often says the mother, 17, who started college at 14. Moisture drains through Kelly's plastic, blanket-less sleeping surface into a pan underneath the crib.

The young parents say they purchased the led over friends' objections.

"We take the baby out for feeding, to play with and for most of the other reasons people take their babies out of cribs," they added.

Mary and Walt chose the crib because they say it is climate controlled and comfortable, safe, with no fears the baby could smother, and partially soundproof cutting noise down for baby, not to mention the parents and the neighbors.

Soothsayer Clay Outlines How He Calls Ring Victories

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Mystics take note of the date, May 19, 1962. For on that fateful night Cassius Marcellus Clay, the soothsayer of boxing, was wrong.

Clay stopped Bill Daniels in New York on that date in the seventh round. Alas! Cassius had said Daniels would fall in five.

The unbeaten 21-year-old prophet from Louisville said Friday he correctly called the round in 11 other knockout victories and that he didn't predict the outcome of his other five fights.

His latest prediction was fulfilled Thursday night when he knocked out Charley Powell in three rounds here.

The next bout for the fighting seer will be against Doug Jones March 13 in New York's Madison Square Garden.

"Jones will fall in six," said Cassius.

Also coming on the horizon is rematch with Daniels whom Cassius has allotted two rounds.

How did Clay acquire his Merlin-like power?

"I don't know. I just have the power," he admitted.

He added that he began forecasting the round in which he would win a fight just "to liven things up."

"My first prediction was against Lamar Clark. I just had the feeling that he must fall. I said he would fall in two, and he did."

He has continued this unique sideline, Cassius said, "to prove that I'm great. That's what makes me great. They all must fall in the round I call."

His mother said recently:

"When he was 12," she said, "he predicted he would go to the Olympics and bring back a gold medal."

And he did. He started predicting and just kept it up. He said he would be the heavyweight champion someday."

Bill Faversham, Clay's manager of record and one of his 11 advisors, feels his protege's amazing record of correct predictions stems from something besides a mystic power.

"His predictions are based on some pretty shrewd thinking," Faversham said.

Even Cassius acknowledged that in making a prediction:

"I judge the opponent on his ability and record. I just have the talent to whip a man and control a round. I'm exceptionally fast for a heavyweight and I wear a man down. This is how I call a round. I can wear a man down to the round I want."

Nation's 3 Leading Teams Are Scheduled

CHICAGO (AP) — A basketball doubleheader providing a little bit of everything, including the nation's three top-ranked teams, will attract a capacity crowd of 18,000 in Chicago Stadium tonight.

Headed the program is the second game between undefeated Cincinnati, the nation's No. 1 team, and third-ranked Illinois, with only a 90-88 loss to Notre Dame blotting its record.

Also on the card is undefeated Loyola of Chicago, the nation's No. 2 team, seeking its 18th straight victory at the expense of Santa Clara.

Cincinnati, two-time NCAA champion, is aiming for its 33rd successive triumph. The Bearcats have the stingiest defense in the country, allowing their opponents 48.5 points a game.

Illinois, leading the Big Ten race, is hitting at a clip of 88.6 points a game—second among major schools only to Loyola, which has a 97.7 average this season.

West Virginia, the nation's sixth-ranked team, faces Duke, No. 4, in another important game today.

Wichita, rated eighth in the latest Associated Press poll, was the only team in the first 10 to see action Friday night and the Shockers were shocked by North Texas State 69-67. It was the third setback of the season for Wichita.

In other games Holy Cross upset Pittsburgh 77-65, UCLA downed Texas Tech 83-63, Utah State beat Denver 88-62 and Seton Hall down Boston College 61-53.

In West Coast action, Washington defeated Oregon 63-52 and Southern California trounced Loyola of Los Angeles 66-43.

Another Vault Record Pledged

Ex-Marine Expects To Break Own Mark

TORONTO (AP) — Slender Dave Tork, the newest juggler of the hot potato known as the world indoor pole vault record, says his vault of 16 feet, 2 1/4 inches Friday night was just the beginning.

"That was just a warm-up," laughed the 27-year-old former Marine from West Virginia after his record vault at the Mape L. Game. "Wait until the Boston A. A. meet tonight. I'll really shoot the works then. I always feel good in Boston."

Tork, who now does public relations work for the state of West Virginia, felt good enough here Friday night to become the third athlete to establish a world indoor pole vault record in the last four weeks. Don Meyers of the University of Colorado became No. 1 by clearing 16-1 1/2 in Chicago last Dec. 20. Last Saturday, Pentti Nikula of Finland raised the record to 16-1 1/2 in an indoor meet in Helsinki.

Tork's record outshone brilliant performances by Canadians Bruce Kidd and Bill Crothers and followed a controversial finish to the 600-yard run in which Jack Yerman of Oakland, Calif., edged world record holder George Kerr, former Illinois star from Jamaica.

Kidd, the 19-year-old Canadian distance ace, brought roars from the big crowd when he won the 3-mile run in 13 minutes, 34.6 seconds and lapped the field doing it. He was 12.4 seconds under his best previous time for the distance.

Crothers won the 1,000-yard run in 2:12.6, beating Oregon State's Norm Hoffman by seven yards.

Yerman won the 600 when he came wide as Kerr seemed to be out in the last 10 yards, shoved the Jamaican to the side, and got to the tape by an inch in 1:12.3 — three seconds behind Kerr's world record.

"This is the second time Kerr ran me on the outside," Yerman said. "He did it two years ago in Los Angeles and got away with it. I shoved him this time in self protection."

"You saw what happened," snarled Kerr, who refused to accept the runner-up prize and was booed by the crowd when he refused to shake hands with Yerman. "He grabbed me by the shoulders with both hands."

Trainers Work At Scioto in Frigid Weather

Just 17 miles north of Circleville at Scioto Downs, despite the frigid below zero temperatures, harness horsemen are putting more than 100 trotters and pacers through their daily morning workouts.

Jim Mace, 114 N. Washington St., has one of the largest stables with 19 head. Among Mace's valuable assistants is Mike Cloud. The fastest pair in the Mace stable is Pilot Zoom and Just Mae, owned by Herbert Calhoun of Dagsboro, Delaware. Both own records of 2:03.

The next fastest horse in the stable is Miss Chief Moken with a record of 2:03.4. Other outstanding Mace charges are Desert Sand 2:05.1, Meadow Elsa 2:05, and Clever Zip at 2:07.2.

Heading the impressive list of stables is that of Eddie Cobb. The Washington C. H. reinsman has 29-head in training with the brilliant Ace of Spades, 6:15.7.4 being the fastest in the barn.

There are six 2-year-olds in the barn, three owned by the Golden Star stable of Coshocton, Bervado by Amortizor owned by the Mill-spring Farm of Whiteville, New York Bankers Trust by Hodgson owned by Norman Wink of Garden City, New York, and Irish Square by Times Square owned by Cobb, McKinley and Eddie Kirk of Washington C. H.

Cobb is assisted by Buck Norris. Other trainers currently wintering at Scioto Downs are Paul Norris, Walter Braskett, John Martin-dill, Williamsport, Dalton Hodgins, John Berger, and Harold Boethner.

Scioto Downs opens the 1963 night harness racing on Friday May 31st.

4-H Club News

By EDWIN D. TAYLOR
County Extension Agent, 4-H

Jim Shell was one of several youths from Pickaway County who won state honors this year.

Jim's award was in the area of Dairying. He has been active with 4-H Dairy projects throughout his 9 years of 4-H club work.

Shell has written this article concerning his trip to National 4-H Dairy Conference so that fellow 4-H'ers and 4-H friends throughout the county can share some of his experiences. Here's his story:

I was awarded my trip to the National 4-H Dairy Conference by being one of the winners of the State Dairy Achievement Award in 4-H. I will relate some of my experiences while attending the National Dairy Conference held in Chicago.

On Nov. 28, I met C. L. Blackman, dairy extension specialist of Ohio State University and Mrs. Blackman in Columbus, and together with Ronnie Burke and Dixie Jo Nelson, two other Ohio delegates, we motored to Marion and boarded the train for Chicago.

Upon arrival we registered in at the Conrad Hilton, Chicago's largest hotel. Here we met the rest of the Ohio delegation, consisting of six delegates, one adviser, and Mr. and Mrs. Blackman as chaperones. Three of the delegates were awarded this four day trip by being winners in State Dairy Achievement Award.

The other three were first place winners in Dairy judging at the Ohio State Fair. We were sponsored by COBA, NOBA and the National Dairy Products Corporation.

The morning of our first day was spent in taking of State photographs and recreation. In the afternoon our state group visited The Chicago Board of Trade.

Our dinner and program were hosted by the American Dairy Association. We were greeted by Martin J. Framberger, general manager of the association, also by the American Dairy Princess, Sandy Lee Tibau, of Auburn.

Career Conference Due at Ohio State

Career conferences for prospective students in both agriculture and home economics will be held at Ohio State University on February 2.

Students interested in agriculture may report to the auditorium of the Agricultural Administration Building at 9:30 a. m. Those interested in home economics may assemble at Campbell Hall at the same hour.

Both career conferences will last until 2:30 p. m. The afternoon schedule will include tours and visitations by departments within the scope of Home Economics.

More information may be obtained by calling the County Extension office, GR 4-5828.

Wash. She told us of her experiences as American Dairy Princess.

In the evening we boarded buses and attended the Horse Show and Rodeo where we were guests of the International Dairy Show management. Arthur Godfrey and his horse "Goldie" performed in this show which I enjoyed very much.

On Friday we attended Don McNeill's Breakfast Club radio show. We then viewed Chicago from the observatory of the Prudential Building. This gave us an idea of how big Chicago really is.

For lunch and program we were guests of the Saddle and Sirloin Club at the Stock Yards Inn. We were hosted by various cattle clubs and associations.

The speaker was Mr. William D. Knox, editor of Hoards Dairyman. He spoke mostly on influential men connected with the dairy industry whose portraits adorned the walls of the inn.

Following lunch we visited the International Dairy Show which I had been looking forward to seeing. We had a very interesting tour of the livestock exhibition.

For dinner we were back again at the Conrad Hilton. Our speaker was William G. Harnes, president of Beatrice Foods. He spoke on "Careers in the Dairy Industry." There was also a panel discussion on this topic.

Saturday was a busy day. Our breakfast was hosted by Allied Mills, Inc.

In the morning we attended the 4-H Dairy marketing clinic with speaker Mr. W. F. Johnstone of Pennsylvania State University. A question and answer period was conducted in regard to cost of dairy marketing, technological developments on dairy marketing, prices and their relationship to supply and demand and should we introduce non-fat solids as a measure of milk pricing instead of on a butterfat basis. These discussions were most interesting.

Following lunch our time was our own. Some of us visited the stores and walked along the lake front. At dinner in the upper tower of the Conrad Hilton, we were greeted by Samuel White Jr., president of the Oliver Corporation. Speaker for the evening was Glenn W. Salisbury, Professor of Dairy Science, University of Minnesota.

On Sunday morning we began our return home. I had a great time those four short days in Chicago, seeing all the wonderful shows, enjoying the banquets, speeches, discussion groups, recreation and making new friends from many states. I would like to thank the local Extension staff, my advisers, or any one who helped to make this trip possible for me. Also to the many sponsors not already mentioned in this story. It is surely and incentive for any 4-H member interested in dairy to work for.

Present Weather Promotes Battle Against Starlings

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent, Agriculture

The present cold weather and snow cover have driven the starlings to feedlots for their source of food.

The present starling control bait will work fine when the birds are actively feeding in hog feedlots.

Reasonable care must be used with the bait and it must be placed near the feeder being used by the starlings. It should be placed so that the livestock cannot reach it. This may involve the use of a creep, or placed just outside the feedlot.

The bait is available from the following farm suppliers and swine committee - men: Pickaway Grain Co., Red Rose Farm Service, Ashville Grain Co., Scioto Grain Co., Teegardin Grain Co., Atlanta Grain Co., Heffner Grain Co., Buckeye Farm Supply, Robert Lysen, Lawrence Grissom, Louis Eyerman, Homer Cromley, Ross Bidwell, Winfred Bidwell, John Stevenson, Harold Mace and the County Extension office.

THE STARLING is a proven carrier of swine diseases. Therefore the swine committee urges all producers to assist in the control program.

One bag is sufficient for the average farm. Each contains directions for the use of the bait.

Panelists Due At Meeting of Cattle Feeders

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent, Agriculture

Farmers, meat packers and stockyards officials will express their views about on-the-rail selling of cattle at a meeting in Columbus on Jan. 31.

The occasion is the Ohio Cattle Feeders Assn. annual meeting in the Southern Hotel. On-the-rail selling, a term applied to selling livestock according to its carcass value rather than live weight will be discussed by panelists who will appear on the program.

James H. Warner, Ohio State University Extension animal scientist, will serve as moderator. Panel members will be Phillip Gibbs, meat packer of the Earl C. Gibbs firm, Cleveland; John Juengling, meat packer of Gus Juengling & Sons, Cincinnati; L. A. Pretz, Weston, and William Thompson, New Carlisle, both cattle feeders; Frank Teegardin, owner-manager Columbus Union Stock yards; and John Spencer, Long-West Commission Company, Cincinnati.

Ray Creachbaum, Greenfield, association president, will open the program at 10:30 a. m. with a progress report on association activities.

OTHER morning speakers will include Lawrence T. Craine, director of research, Chicago Union Stockyards; Dr. V. L. Tharp, director of the Ohio State University's veterinary clinic; and W. H. Johnson, Bellefontaine meat merchandiser.

The panel presentation and a talk by Harry Williams, chief of the stockyards branch of the Packers and Stockyards Division of Marketing, USDA, will be afternoon features. Williams will discuss "The Packers and Stockyards Act and You".

Jerry Sotola, associate director of public relations, Chicago Union Stockyards, will speak at an evening dinner meeting.

U.S. Farmer Rated As Most Efficient

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent, Agriculture

The U. S. farmer is the world's most efficient farmer.

Because of this we are the best fed and best clothed people in the world and the most inexpensive in the proportion of our incomes it takes to obtain these items.

Research and its adaptation to farming have brought about a virtual agricultural revolution in this country in recent years.

A U.S. farmer produces enough food for himself and 23 other persons. Only a few years ago he produced enough for himself and only seven others.

IN RUSSIA a farmer produces

enough to feed himself and one other. It was not by accident that Khrushchev visited an Iowa farm when he came to the United States.

He knows that agriculture is one of America's greatest sources of strength. He realizes, too, that as long as it takes one Russian on the farm to feed one worker in industry, Soviet progress is greatly handicapped.

In the past 18 years, U. S. farmers have improved their efficiency more than in the preceding 120 years. They have increased their per acre yield of 18 leading field crops by 71 per cent in less than 20 years. Production per man hour has almost trebled since the early 30's.

A successful marriage does not just happen. It is the achievement of two mature people who recognize and honestly try to solve the problems that married life presents in our modern world.

The happily married person is usually a person who is considerate of others; tends to be flexible, willing to compromise and adjust; tends to be friendly, companionable, sociable; and tends to have a healthy self-confidence.

The unhappily married person tends to be hypercritical and inconsiderate of others; may often be a dominating and unyielding person who is too "set in his ways"; too determined to have his own way all the time; is frequently isolated and unsociable; and tends to be lacking in self-confidence.

Many research studies in marriage made during the past two decades suggest that for a completely successful marriage the following conditions are important: (1) The couple should be temperamentally compatible. (2) They should be sincerely and deeply in love. (3) They should place domestic values foremost in their hierarchy of values. (4) They should have vital common interests. (5) Large areas of freedom for self-development and self-expression should be provided for in all fields which do not threaten the pair relationship. (6) They should be mutually adaptable. (7) The relationship should not be vulnerable to outside disruptive pressure, such as interference of in-laws and adverse economic conditions. (8) The marriage should furnish a wholesome background for the rearing of children.

The National Committee for Mental Health compiled a list of "Ten Commandments for a Happy Marriage." They are:

1. Since it is against human nature for anyone to love 100 per cent all the time, don't demand constant expressions of love, even though love is the foundation of marriage and the home.

2. Marriage is a partnership. Happy homes are made by understanding and cooperative effort.

3. In marriage all things add up;

congenial conversation, sexual harmony, shared interests, and practical helpfulness are integrated and strengthen each other.

4. Sex should be used intelligently like sight, hearing or speech, for the enrichment of married life.

5. Both husband and wife should respect the individuality of the other.

6. Live fully for the day and don't mar it by undue worry about tomorrow.

7. Don't try to reform or "educate" your mate, for such attempts are seldom successful.

8. Emphasize the virtues and strong points of your husband or wife and praise them to him (her) and to others.

9. Members of a family must absorb and discount occasional hostility and bad temper which one or the other may show.

10. Learn to share your feelings whether they be affection or irritation and be equally ready to accept those of your mate.

Farm Facts . . .

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent, Agriculture

IN THE EARLY days of our country it required the efforts of 99 out of every 100 persons just to produce food. Today, less than 10 out of 100 persons do the farming.

AN 83 PER CENT increase in population is expected in the United States by the year 2000.

U. S. FARMERS use 22 billion kilowatt hours of electric power per year.

OHIO FARMERS spend more than 800 million dollars annually for farm supplies and equipment.

MORE THAN 50 per cent (71,000) of all farm operators in Ohio receive income from off farm employment.

FOOD-FOR-PEACE allocations to countries in the Alliance for Progress Program totaled about $2.5 million in the 18 months between Jan. 1, 1961, and June 30, 1962.

THE UNITED STATES had pledged $40 million in commodities and $10 million in cash and services to a three-year, $100 million World Food Program sponsored by the United Nations and the Food and Agriculture Organization.

FOOD-FOR-PEACE is a program for sharing U. S. agricultural abundance with under-nourished people and emerging nations, and for developing export markets for the farm commodities.

FOREIGN AID takes about three-fourths of one per cent of our Gross National Product.

14 Hindus To Hang For Untouchables Riot

BOMBAY, India (AP) — Fourteen upper caste Hindus have been sentenced to hang and 21 others jailed for life for rioting against untouchables in a village near Indore City.

The riot occurred last Sept. 4 when the untouchables—members of the lowest Hindu caste—tried to exercise their legal right to worship at a temple from which religious tradition had barred them for centuries. Four untouchables were killed and 18 others seriously injured.

4-H Club News

By EDWIN D. TAYLOR
County Extension Agent, 4-H

Jim Shell was one of several youths from Pickaway County who won state honors this year.

Jim's award was in the area of Dairying. He has been active with 4-H Dairy projects throughout his 9 years of 4-H club work.

Shell has written this article concerning his trip to National 4-H Dairy Conference so that fellow 4-H'ers and 4-H friends throughout the county can share some of his experiences. Here's his story:

I was awarded my trip to the National 4-H Dairy Conference by being one of the winners of the State Dairy Achievement Award in 4-H. I will relate some of my experiences while attending the National Dairy Conference held in Chicago.

On Nov. 28, I met C. L. Blackman, dairy extension specialist of Ohio State University and Mrs. Blackman in Columbus, and together with Ronnie Burke and Dixie Jo Nelson, two other Ohio delegates, we motored to Marion and boarded the train for Chicago.

Upon arrival we registered in the Conrad Hilton, Chicago's largest hotel. Here we met the rest of the Ohio delegation, consisting of six delegates, one adviser, and Mr. and Mrs. Blackman as chaperones. Three of the delegates were awarded this four day trip by being winners in State Dairy Achievement Award.

The other three were first place winners in Dairy judging at the Ohio State Fair. We were sponsored by COBA, NOBA and the National Dairy Products Corporation.

The morning of our first day was spent in taking of State photographs and recreation. In the afternoon our state group visited The Chicago Board of Trade.

Our dinner and program were hosted by the American Dairy Association. We were greeted by Martin J. Framberger, general manager of the association, also by the American Dairy Princess, Sandy Lee Tibebu, of Auburn.

I had a great time those four short days in Chicago, seeing all the wonderful shows, enjoying the banquets, speeches, discussion groups, recreation and making new friends from many states. I would like to thank the local Extension staff, my advisers, or any one who helped to make this trip possible for me. Also to the many sponsors not already mentioned in this story. It is surely and incentive for any 4-H member interested in dairy to work for.

Present Weather Promotes Battle Against Starlings

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent, Agriculture

The present cold weather and snow cover have driven the starlings to feedlots for their source of food.

The present starling control bait will work fine when the birds are actively feeding in hog feedlots.

Reasonable care must be used with the bait and it must be placed near the feeder being used by the starlings. It should be placed so that the livestock cannot reach it. This may involve the use of a creep, or placed just outside the feedlot.

The bait is available from the following farm suppliers and swine committee - men: Pickaway Grain Co., Red Rose Farm Service, Ashville Grain Co., Scioto Grain Co., Teegardin Grain Co., Atlanta Grain Co., Heffner Grain Co., Buckeye Farm Supply, Robert Ljston, Lawrence Grissom, Louis Eyerman, Homer Cromley, Ross Bidwell, Winfred Bidwell, John Stevenson, Harold Mace and the County Extension office.

THE STARLING is a proven carrier of swine diseases. Therefore the swine committee urges all producers to assist in the control program.

One bag is sufficient for the average farm. Each contains directions for the use of the bait.

Panelists Due At Meeting of Cattle Feeders

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent, Agriculture

Farmers, meat packers and stockyards officials will express their views about on-the-rail selling of cattle at a meeting in Columbus on Jan. 31.

The occasion is the Ohio Cattle Feeders Assn. annual meeting in the Southern Hotel. On-the-rail selling, a term applied to selling livestock according to its carcass value rather than live weight will be discussed by panelists who will appear on the program.

James H. Warner, Ohio State University Extension animal scientist, will serve as moderator. Panel members will be Phillip Gibbs, meat packer of the Earl C. Gibbs firm, Cleveland; John Juengling, meat packer of Gus Juengling & Sons, Cincinnati; L. A. Pretz, Weston, and William Thompson, New Carlisle, both cattle feeders; Frank Teegardin, owner-manager Columbus Union Stock yards; and John Spencer, Long-West Commission Company, Cincinnati.

Ray Creachbaum, Greenfield, association president, will open the program at 10:30 a. m. with a progress report on association activities.

OTHER morning speakers will include Lawrence T. Craine, director of research, Chicago Union Stockyards; Dr. V. L. Tharp, director of the Ohio State University's veterinary clinic; and W. H. Johnson, Bellefontaine meat merchandiser.

The panel presentation and a talk by Harry Williams, chief of the stockyards branch of the Packers and Stockyards Division of Marketing, USDA, will be afternoon features. Williams will discuss "The Packers and Stockyards Act and You".

Jerry Sotola, associate director of public relations, Chicago Union Stockyards, will speak at an evening dinner meeting.

U.S. Farmer Rated As Most Efficient

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent, Agriculture

The U. S. farmer is the world's most efficient farmer.

Because of this we are the best fed and best clothed people in the world and the most inexpensively in the proportion of our incomes it takes to obtain these items.

Research and its adaptation to farming have brought about a virtual agricultural revolution in this country in recent years.

A U. S. farmer produces enough food for himself and 23 other persons. Only a few years ago he produced enough for himself and only seven others.

IN RUSSIA a farmer produces

enough to feed himself and one other. It was not by accident that Khrushchev visited an Iowa farm when he came to the United States.

He knows that agriculture is one of America's greatest sources of strength. He realizes, too, that as long as it takes one Russian on the farm to feed one worker in industry, Soviet progress is greatly handicapped.

In the past 18 years, U. S. farmers have improved their efficiency more than in the preceding 120 years. They have increased their per acre yield of 18 leading field crops by 71 per cent in less than 20 years. Production per man hour has almost trebled since the early 30's.

Homemaker News

A successful marriage does not just happen. It is the achievement of two mature people who recognize and honestly try to solve the problems that married life presents in our modern world.

The happily married person is usually a person who is considerate of others; tends to be flexible, willing to compromise and adjust; tends to be friendly, companionable, sociable; and tends to have a healthy self-confidence.

The unhappily married person tends to be hypercritical and inconsiderate of others; may often be a dominating and unyielding person who is too "set in his ways"; too determined to have his own way all the time; is frequently isolated and unsociable; and tends to be lacking in self-confidence.

Many research studies in marriage made during the past two decades suggest that for a completely successful marriage the following conditions are important: (1) The couple should be temperamentally compatible. (2) They should be sincerely and deeply in love. (3) They should place domestic values foremost in their hierarchy of values. (4) They should have vital common interests. (5) Large areas of freedom for self-development and self-expression should be provided for in all fields which do not threaten the pair relationship. (6) They should be mutually adaptable. (7) The relationship should not be vulnerable to outside disruptive pressure, such as interference of in-laws and adverse economic conditions. (8) The marriage should furnish a wholesome background for the rearing of children.

The National Committee for Mental Health compiled a list of "Ten Commandments for a Happy Marriage." They are:

1. Since it is against human nature for anyone to love 100 per cent all of the time, don't demand constant expressions of love, even though love is the foundation of marriage and the home.

2. Marriage is a partnership. Happy homes are made by understanding and cooperative effort.

3. In marriage all things add up;

Farm Facts . . .

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent, Agriculture

IN THE EARLY days of our country it required the efforts of 99 out of every 100 persons just to produce food. Today, less than 10 out of 100 persons do the farming.

AN 83 PER CENT increase in population is expected in the United States by the year 2000.

U. S. FARMERS use 22 billion kilowatt hours of electric power per year.

OHIO FARMERS spend more than 800 million dollars annually for farm supplies and equipment.

MORE THAN 50 per cent (71-000) of all farm operators in Ohio receive income from off farm employment.

FOOD-FOR-PEACE allocations to countries in the Alliance for Progress Program totaled about $2.5 million in the 18 months between Jan. 1, 1961, and June 30, 1962.

THE UNITED STATES had pledged $40 million in commodities and $10 million in cash and services to a three-year, $100 million World Food Program sponsored by the United Nations and the Food and Agriculture Organization.

FOOD-FOR-PEACE is a program for sharing U. S. agricultural abundance with under-nourished people and emerging nations, and for developing export markets for the farm commodities.

FOREIGN AID takes about three-fourths of one per cent of our Gross National Product.
